SILVER ANNIVERSARY Celebrated on Thursday Evening by San Jose Council, K. of C.—Banquet and Speeches Provide Pleasure for Congenial Assembly.

San Jose council, No. 14, Knights of Columbus, commemorated the most noteworthy event in its history Thursday evening, when upwards of 125 Knights and guests fittingly celebrated the 25th anniversary with a banquet and reception in the council's rooms in the Old Armory on Center at the council of the coun street.

The local council was instituted 25 years ago the 12th of March, with between 20 and 25 charter members. Today it enjoys the distinction of being one of the largest councils in this section of the state with a membership numbering close to 250. The anniversary banquet Thursday evening was a fine climax to well worked out plans, as the event was one of the most enjoyable in the council's history.

most enjoyable in the council's history.

The postprandial exercises were all that could be desired. The banquet hall was glittering with light. There were three long tables, the head one in the form of a T, the other two placed parallel with the base of the T, all finely decorated. The artistic decorations of the hall were by P. D. Donahue, who used, red, white and blue festoons of crepe paper to good effect. Shields of the national colors were artistically arranged about the hall. A number of colored electric bulbs diffused their mellow rays upon the assembly.

was furnished during the service of the banquet, that was under the su-pervision of Mrs. Squires, by Vincent Sweeney, plano, Harry Tobin, first vio-lin, and Lawrence Casey, second vio-lin, whose fathers or other near rela-tives are active members of San Jose council.

The waitresses were members of the ladies' auxiliary to the K. of C.

A flashlight picture of the assemblage was taken.

Grand Knight George A. Grady, in a pleasing manner introduced as the toastmaster Edward F. Casey. Mr. Casey spoke of the significance of the anniversary celebration which brought to the minds of many of the older knights present incidents that had an important bearing upon the growth of the local council and the place that the organization occupies in the world today. He introduced Rev. Arthur De Bruycker, pastor of St. Mary's church, who responded to the toast Welcome. Rt. Rev. Bishop Gabriel was the next speaker and he treated his subject, The Deeds of Columbus and the Good the Knights Are Doing, in a most interesting manner. Bishop Gabriel also said grace. The divine was followed by Hon. Daniel P. Dunn, who's theme was Our City. The mayor was, as usual, very interesting, and spoke in an entertaining manner.

A letter was read by P. G. K. William A. Costello from F. M. McCarthy, formerly of this city, now of Providence.

Toastmaster Casey, in introducing

Toastmaster Casey, in introducing which was started in Mystic some few months ago, has admitted new memthe next speaker, said he has always held a strong affection for our council and visited us on every possible occasion, and although the city of Norwich, where he now resides, has a fine council, White Cross, No. 13, he has always remained and is still a member of our council. His brother knights of Norwich have no jealousy for the brother, as it is that he loves not White Cross council none the less but that he loves his council maternal more. It is with pleasure that I introduce as the next speaker, Brother John Crawford, formerly of Willimantic, now of Norwich, but always of San Jose council. His subject is The Founder of Our Order. Mr. Crawford interested the large assemblage with the high and noble traits of the character of Mr. Murray, the founder of the order. of Mr. Murray, the founder of the or-der, and recalled to the mind of many touching incidents. He was given close attention and was liberally applauded.

National Historian Colwell.

Toastmaster Casey said: I have the pleasure of introducing as the next speaker the man who 25 years ago instituted San Jose council, the man who one year ago retired from the office of national secretary to assume the duties of national historian of the order, after 25 years of consecutive service as national secretary. During that time he was at the service of each and every council in the order, and, I might almost say, of every individual of the order. No man ever gave his valued service more willingly, cheerfully and heartly. He is the most conspicuous of the surviving founders of the order and contributed most largely in building it up from the first council in New Haven to the furthermost point of our continent along which lengthy pathway are planted our 1,500 councils. His subject will be Old Memories. I take pleasure in introducing Brother Daniel Colwell of New Haven.

Mr. Colwell was greeted with loud applause. He stirred up old memories of the order as no other one man could and kept his hearers traveling fast to keep pace with him in his march onward from the inception of the order up to the present time. Mr. Colwell, was well primed with data particularly pertinent and interesting to everyone having the organization at heart. His long service as secretary also served to supplement that knowledge, He was cordially applauded at the conclusion of his toast.

Gustave O. Cartier. National Historian Colwell,

Gustave O. Cartier. Gustave O. Cartier, the next speak-er, responded to Fellowship. He spoke in his usual entertaining and engaging manner and was given a good recep-

The toastmaster called on the fol-

Thomas F, Clark of New Hayen A Knight from the Home of the Order; Lawrence S, Casey, Impressions of the Order; Hon. Edward L. Smith, mayor of Hartford. Remarks: William Vanderman, Rev. J. J. McGuane, Remarks, The last speaker of the evening was Prof. J. F. T. O'Connor, professor of rhetoric at Yale university, New Hayen, who spoke from the subject, Education. Professor O'Connor is a fine speaker, and although coming last on the long list of speakers had no difficulty in holding his audience interest, and was accorded frequent applause.

Buried Beside His Wife.

Buried Beside His Wife.

Mark Twain is buried beside his wife in Elmira. So fer as we know, in all his frank outgivings on domestic affairs, all that he said of her tended to give an idealized portrait of a beautiful woman who radiated happiness in her keme. She was Olivia L. fangdon of Elmira. In his autobiography he wrote of her: "I saw her first in the form of an ivory miniature in her brother Charley's stateroom in the steamer Quaker City, in the bay of Smyrna, in the summer of 1867, when she was in her 22d year. Saw her in the flesh for the first time in New York in the following December. She was slender and beautiful and girlish, and she was both girl and woman. She remained both girl and woman to the last of her life." On her gravestone is the epitaph, become famous, which was thought at first to have been written by her husband but famous, which was thought at first to have been written by her husband, but which he disclaimed:

Warm southern wind
Blow softly here...
Green sod above
Lie light, lie light.
Good night, dear heart.
Good night, good night,

The words are those of an Austra-tian poet. Robert Richardson, and were published in Edinburgh in 1893. Mr. Clements had Richardson's name cut on the stone after the lines had been generally accepted as his own.—Wa-terbury American.

Three Great Left.

The constellation thins. Fame's Illustrious list skyinks. Time was when there was a Franklin, "greatest of American philosophers and diplomats." Time was when there was a Jefferson, writer of the Declaration of Independence and in other ways distinguished. Time was when there was an Alexander Hamilton, maker and defender of the constitution. Time was when there was a Grant, saviour of the union. Time was—but why prolong an obsolete list? The number of the great has simmered down to three. And now abide Washington, Lincoln and Roosevelt—these three. And the greatest of these is Roosevelt. The others really don't matter. They are likely to disappear at any time.—New Haven Registor.
